Frightened Horse Runs.

There was an exciting runaway on lower Main street Thursday morning, in which the team of a Polish peddler featured. The owner was in one of the houses in the neighborhood when the horse started, frightened from an un-known cause. When near the former home of James Haggerty, the wagon collided with a telephone pole, and was pretty well smashed up. The horse freed himself from the wreckage and ran up a side street, where he was captured.

Death of Mrs. Dennis Barnett, a Na tive of Norwich-Authorities to En force Muzzle Law.

Dennis Barnett died at her home on Main street just before mid-night Wednesday, after an illness with a complication of diseases lasting over a period of several years, pernicious anaemia at last causing her death. Mrs. Barnett, before her marriage Hannah Marie Finn, was born in Nor-wich, March 16, 1864, the daughter of Daniel and Hannah (Cavanaugh) Finn.

When she was a young girl the family moved to Jewett City.

Miss Finn, after being educated in the public schools, was graduated from the Business College in Worcester, after which she took charge of the bookkeeping in the Finn Bros.' store, and was later assistant post-master for her brother, the late James H. Finn, serving in a like capacity for the late A, C. Ladd. Dennis Barnett and Miss Finn were married Nov. 15, 1892 by the late Rev. F. P. O'Keefe, rector of St. Mary's church of this place. Few women are called upon in their home lives to meet the demands for as much fortitude and physical energy as was Mrs. Barnett. During the last illness and death of her mother and brother she was not only a devoted daughter and sister, but was averathing also that sister, but was everything else that any woman could be. Her oldest son, James, was drowned in July, 1888, as a result of which she was prostrated
